FUSSIACUS

SAINT-VÉРАН

“Fussiacus” is the ancient Roman spelling for the town of Fuissé in a part of Burgundy known for producing some the world’s greatest chardonnay.

This beauty is another reminder to buy 2015 vintage wines from France — any part of France — whenever we can find them. The ripe vintage chardonnay produces something akin to peach cobbler in a glass: Think juicy, sweet peaches with a buttery biscuit topping. Then drink it in.

This wine has crisp acidity and a simple message of fresh fruitiness. An attractive lemon character permeates the wine with an perfumed aftertaste.
